1773. Chairman's report

Barcombe Cross Road Signs

In response to comment the Parish Council has received by the Wayfarer in Barcombe News and two other members of the electorate, the chairman explained the Parish Council's decision.

OS mapping began in 1791 and the South Of England was completed in 1810. The name of Barcombe Cross appears clearly in OS Maps from that date as does Barcombe which is the area around St Mary's. We are Barcombe Cross not just Barcombe. The Chairman has a map dated 1836 and another 1873 and Ian Hilder has others all stating Barcombe Cross.

The Parish Council is not making up names – our village is Barcombe Cross and it is with some embarrassment that the three large signs at the entry to the village are clearly wrong. We are correcting bad signage. It is insane that our current misspelling is evident on all maps, sat navs and Google Earth.

Please note The Parish Of Barcombe includes Spithurst, Town Littleworth, Barcombe Mills and Barcombe and Barcombe Cross.

As an experiment the Chairman posted a letter to himself, with name and house name but deliberately left out the road, village and county. I just wrote out the post code – it arrived the following day. Therefore the name correction will not have any impact on the postal service.
